

Yashas K. Honasoge

Associate

yashas.honasoge@kattenlaw.com

Chicago

p +1.312.902.5609

Practices

FOCUS: Intellectual Property

Recognition

Super Lawyers Rising Stars, Illinois, 2019

Education

JD, University of Illinois College of Law, cum laude

MS, Electrical Engineering, The University of Southern California

BS, Electrical Engineering, University of Michigan

BS, Mechanical Engineering, University of Michigan

Bar Admissions

Illinois

Yashas Honasoge is an associate in the Intellectual Property group at Katten Muchin Rosenman LLP, where his practice focuses on complex patent litigation and related intellectual property matters. Yashas has a breadth of experience representing and counseling clients throughout all stages of litigation, and has represented clients in federal district court, and before the Patent Trial and Appeal Board and US International Trade Commission.

With a deep understanding of electrical and mechanical arts, Yashas is able to quickly understand complex technologies and bring this knowledge to bear during litigation. He has successfully represented clients in patent suits involving a wide array of technologies, including wireless communications and cellular standards, vision-based driver assistance systems, and portable consumer media devices.

Advisories

- Pair of Federal Circuit Decisions May Impact Early Section 101 Challenges in Patent Litigation (February 21, 2018)

Articles

- Co-author, A Closer Look at Fed. Circ.'s Ruling in ClearCorrect , Law360 (November 25, 2015)